

FULBRIGHT

Fulbright Foreign Language Teaching Assistant

2027-2028

The Fulbright Foreign Language Teaching Assistantship (FLTA) is a nine-month fellowship ECA-funded, non-degree program for early career (not more than seven years of teaching experience) English teachers. Candidates who are teachers in the fields of American Studies, Journalism and Media, American/English Literature, and teachers of their own language as a foreign language will also be considered on a case-by-case basis. Participants teach Arabic in American colleges or universities. The program provides future teachers with the opportunity to perfect their teaching skills, increase their capacity, to improve their English language competency and to have a better knowledge of American society and culture of the United States while serving as teaching assistants for their native language to U.S. students and strengthening foreign language instruction at U.S. colleges and universities. Fulbright FLTA participants also interact with their host communities through conversation groups, extracurricular activities, and community outreach projects. Fulbright FLTA participants must return to their home countries upon completion of the program. The FLTAs are recruited from diverse backgrounds but are required to have formal academic training and professional experience in teaching. In addition to teaching Arabic language, FLTAs may serve as:

- Resource persons in conversation groups
- Cultural representatives
- Attendants in language laboratories
- Guest speakers in civilization courses

- Supervisors of language clubs

Conditions of Eligibility:

- Algerian citizenship
- Applicants must be residing in Algeria throughout the nomination, selection and placement processes.
- Minimum of two years of teaching experience
- Bachelor's degree (License of 4 years or License LMD + M1 program).
- Minimum score of 79 (internet based TOEFL-IBT)
- Fluency in English and classical Arabic (speaking and writing)

How to apply?

Applicants who meet the conditions of eligibility can apply online through the following web link: <https://apply.iie.org/flta2027>

Important Note:

Plagiarism: Plagiarism is unacceptable. All applications will be checked and rejected in case of plagiarism. Plagiarism is using someone else's ideas or work without proper or complete acknowledgment. Plagiarism encompasses many details and is by far the most common manifestation of academic fraud. For example, copying a passage straight from a book into a paper without quoting or explicitly citing the source is blatant plagiarism. In addition, completely rewording someone else's work or ideas and using it as one's own is also plagiarism.

It is very important that students properly acknowledge all ideas, work and even distinctive wording that are not their own. However, certain information in any discipline is considered "common knowledge" and may be used without acknowledgment.

What is common knowledge varying among fields, when in doubt consult a professor or teaching assistant. Students unsure of how to properly acknowledge a source are encouraged to consult a research assistant, teaching assistant, professor or manual of style.

Plagiarism Agreement now addresses the use of generative artificial intelligence on applications. The additional text that was included with the plagiarism statement is as follows:

Some US universities and colleges have developed and published policies on the use of generative artificial intelligence (GenAI) on applications for admission or affiliation with their institution. Some institutions may scan applications for the use of language produced by GenAI. While individual institutional policies range widely and policy responses from US universities will continue to evolve, copying language/content produced by GenAI directly into your application may negatively impact admission or affiliation decisions.

A complete application should be submitted no later than June 20, 2026. Questions regarding the program can be directed to the Public Affairs Section, at the following email address: pasalgiersenglish@state.gov

NB: Please kindly note that due to the high number of applications received, we cannot send individual feedback to every applicant. Only applicants who will make it to the interview phase will be contacted. Thank you for your understanding.
